

TEMAGAMI PROGRAM CLOTHING AND EQUIPMENT LIST

Investing in gear at this age is a tough call. It is always good to have the best when out in the wilderness. However, we understand that while children are growing, clothes have a short lifespan. Therefore, we recommend that you buy midrange items or second hand high quality items.

It is essential that all items (clothing and gear) be well labelled with your child's name. Camp ends up with mountains of lost and found at the end of the summer. The best way to ensure all your child's belongings come home is to label them. We recommend Mabels Labels – they sell full custom label kits. 30% of purchases made through their link (see the web version of this list) are donated to the Wanapitei Camper Bursary.

EQUIPMENT (GEAR)

- 1 PFD – ensure it is in GOOD shape, comfortable and government-approved. Check seams and quality of material for sun damage.
- 1 flatwater paddle–If you decide to purchase a paddle or have one already, please consider the following: This paddle should be made of wood (more comfortable to hold and warmer than aluminum on the hands) and can be fitted at the retailer where purchased. If you have a paddle of your own and are unsure of the sizing, the paddle when vertical should roughly nestle in your child's armpit or the grip end should be at about chin height. We rent paddles at camp.
- 2 whistles – one on your lifejacket and one for around your neck/wrist
- 1 sleeping bag – Though down sleeping bags pack smaller, we believe that it is more practical for this age group to purchase a synthetic bag. It is cheaper, and dries faster. A temperature rating as low as -7 Celsius is recommended (it can be cool especially in early or late summer; this is not a winter bag but warm enough to take out the chill during the cool periods).
- 1 sleeping pad (Therm-A-Rest) - Ensolite pads are cheaper but less comfortable. While Therm-A-Rest style pads are more comfortable and keep body warmer they are more expensive. We recommend that, if your child will be returning to camp for a few summers, to invest in a Therm-A-Rest.
- 1 personal backpack – A good bag can last a long time and last a camper through their “career”: at Wanapitei. Size, durability and comfort are the biggest priorities. Packs should be within the 40-70L range. Campers carry their own backpacks so it should fit well.
- 2 dry bags – this will go inside your child's personal backpack. Make sure they are in good shape and waterproof (welded seams, good closure, good material). Do NOT bring garbage bags. One 20-30L for sleeping bag, one 30-40L for personal gear.
- 1 sheet for bunk
- 1 small pillow (optional – for in camp)
- 1 flashlight/headlamp – and extra batteries (headlamp is recommended)

- 1 dish set (large mug, plate, knife, fork, spoon) in a mesh bag – metal or plastic, WELL LABELLED with camper name.
- 1L water bottle – metal or Nalgene
- 1 pair of sunglasses and attachment string
- 1 towel
- 1 bug net for bed – recommended for July campers. Can be purchased at MEC or Canadian Tire.
- 1 pair of sunglasses and attachment string
- 1 towel

ESSENTIAL CLOTHING ITEMS FOR CANOE TRIP

Cotton on trip is cumbersome and at times dangerous. When wet it uses the body's heat to dry itself causing the person wearing the cotton to become colder. Thus we ask that your child does not bring cotton on trip. We recommend that your child bring clothes made of quick dry or wicking materials. These clothes dry fast and keep your child warm. Good materials to look out for are fleece for sweaters, merino wool or polypropylene (example – Capilene from Patagonia) for long johns and shirts, and quick dry for shorts and pants. These rules about cotton apply to socks as well. Wool and SmartWool are good sock material. It is important to remember that there will be varied summer weather and temperatures, so you must prepare for a range of possibilities.

- 2 pairs of shoes – one pair for day with good ankle support (does not necessarily mean a high ankle, but should have a good grip and be very sturdy). These shoes will be worn while portaging. Make sure they are broken in. Dry shoes for the evening can be lighter and less sturdy.
- 1 rain jacket - Must be waterproof. Breathable is highly recommended, though not imperative.
- 1 pair rain pants - Must be waterproof. Breathable is highly recommended, though not imperative. Rubber rain pants are sufficient. Rain pants are usually worn during the day when raining and at night to keep dry while on the campsite if it is raining.
- 1 bug jacket – a baseball hat is recommended for under the bug jacket to keep the mesh away from the face.
- 2 t-shirts
- 2 long-sleeve shirts – 1 quick-dry material, 1 base-layer (merino wool or polypropylene – ex. Capilene)
- 2 sweaters – one for light day use, one for warmth in the evening. Both must be wool or fleece, no cotton.
- 1 pairs of quick dry/light weight pants – no jeans or sweatpants.
- 1 pairs of quick dry/light weight shorts
- 1 pair of long johns – merino wool or polyester – not cotton

- 4 pairs of socks – two for use during the day, two for dry use at night (at least two pairs should be wool)
- 6 pairs of underwear – quick dry/polyester if possible
- 1 sunhat – consider packing two if your child is prone to losing things.
- 1 toque – wool or fleece.
- 1 pair of mitts or gloves
- 1 bathing suit
